And What Have You

By BOB CRAIG

We spent a most enjoyable weekend at the Holiday Inn and Solardome in San Angelo. We also made our second tour of the Caverns of Sonora on Saturday.

Now San Angelo is probably not a first choice place to spend a vacation but the new Solardome makes a great place to spend a family weekend.

Someone has come up with a great idea for a motel. The pool area is completely enclosed and the temperature is regulated. The area includes a Sauna, sun lamps, whirlpool baths, putting green, ping-pong and shuffleboard courts.

It is just a nice place to spend a leisurely weekend.

And if you have never been to the Caverns of Sonora we would highly recommend that you find the time someday to make it down there. The biggest problem with the caverns is its location — Sonora is just not on the way to many places that you might be going to from here. If it were located in one of the more traveled areas of the state it would probably rate as one of the top tourist attractions in Texas.

It has some of the most beautiful formations that we have ever seen in a cavern.

The following editorial appeared in a recent issue of "The Christian Science Monitor" and deals with the aftermath of Vietnam. We feel that our readers will find it worth the time it takes to read.

A FRESH START

It is a deep relief to the United States that the Americans are safely out of Vietnam. The scenes of Vietnamese desperation, bitterness, and disarray that accompanied the final hours of the withdrawal were sorrowful to watch. But, given the extreme circumstances that attended the end of a 20-year involvement, the evacuation of the Americans and some 56,000 South Vietnamese was carried out as well as one might reasonably have expected.

President Ford asks that the nation now "close ranks" and avoid recriminations. This surely does not mean that the lessons of Vietnam should not be analyzed and weighed, or that questions should not be asked about the administration's handling of the denouement in Indo-China. Indeed they should. But the probing should be done with a view to assimilating the war's lessons and applying them to future American policy. And it should be done objectively and fairly — not in the one-sided manner of some television coverage, which showed only the human misery and military mistakes of the war without even a mention of the nobler efforts of hundreds of Americans and

Recreation Night for Older Residents Set

A recreation night for older residents is being planned for May 20, sponsored by the churches of Hamlin.

The "Older Texas Recreation Night" for those 65 and over will be held at the First Baptist Church in Hamlin at 7 p.m.

The celebration for older citizens in Jones County will be the thirteenth annual event. Nancy Wilburn, Jones County Extension Agent, who is working out details, said "We would like to focus the county-wide celebration on emphasizing the rich heritage we enjoy because of the efforts of our older citizens."

The county-wide "Older Texan Banquet" will be held Tuesday, May 27, at 6:30 p.m. in the Anson Ward School Gymnasium. The banquet is only for those 65 and over and will be sponsored by Jones County businesses.

The "Outstanding Older Texan" will be recognized at the banquet. Any organization (church, social, business or service) is invited to nominate a person for the honor. Nominees must be a Jones County resident of six years. Deadline for nominations is May 16 and must be mailed to Betty Sloan, Box 688, Anson, Texas

Vietnamese Evacuees — — Three Visiting In Home Here

A local woman sees her father on television arriving in the United States with Vietnamese evacuees one evening and the next thing she hears from him is when he calls from Abilene where he has just flown in. With him are three of the evacuees.

Delmar Parsley, father of Mrs. Barry (Loretta) Moore, who had been in Saigon for seven years with Pacific Architect and Engineers, had to leave there last October.

When he learned that Americans could bring people out of Vietnam, he returned to locate friends there and make plans for their evacuation.

Parsley worked with the Orangevale Assembly of God Church near Sacramento, Calif., to get assistance in bringing the evacuees out. Normal procedure usually took three months and a lot of money, he said. American officials apparently did not expect the end to come so quickly, he surmised.

Americans could stay in Vietnam for seven days at one time and then they had to leave the country. Parsley went to Vietnam April 2 and stayed the allotted time making arrangements. He then went to Singapore until he could return to Saigon. In Singapore he was again assisted by the Assembly of God Church.

When word came from President Ford to speed up the processing and get the people out of Saigon, he said that everything was handled quickly. In fact, he said, those in Tan Son Nhut were forbidden to leave to get others to bring with them.

He was able to bring out nine persons. A 68-year-old man who had been running from the communist for 25 years, came with his daughter, 36, her two sons, ages eight and nine, and two other grandsons, 14 and 15. They stayed in Sacramento, Calif., with friends of Parsley who will assist them in securing sponsors in this country.

With Parsley in Hamlin are a 25-year-old mother and her two children, a girl, 2, and a boy, 3½. The Moores met them Saturday evening in Abilene.

Parsley and his group left Saigon April 27. They were in Guam April 27, 28 and 29 for preliminary processing. From there they next landed at the Marine base at El Toro, Calif., and went on to Camp Pendleton, one of the three processing centers in the U.S.

While visiting with the Moores, Parsley and the mother, Hue (pronounced Whey), the son Binh (Ben) and the daughter, Mai (My) are getting used to the time difference and resting.

Mrs. Moore said that the children were very shy at first but are now beginning to play. Binh is called "Bun" by the family and he and the Moores' son Fred Barry are finding a way of communicating through play. Hue speaks some English.

The Vietnamese have been sustained on a diet of rice and fish but are adapting to American foods. Mrs. Moore said the only difficulty at mealtime had been when hamburgers were served. They did not really care for the hamburgers, she said.

When Parsley's position as facilities engineering manager with PAE was terminated last October, he became actively engaged in an export business in Singapore which he owns with two others.

He plans to make arrangements for the evacuees and expects to be in the U.S. about two months.

Today's Young Marrieds Face Many Changes, Challenges

Exchanging "I do's" brings young couples face-to-face with many changes.

This change in marital status also calls for different responsibilities and developmental tasks (growth needs), Nacey Wilburn, County Extension Agent, noted.

"While the husband attempts new developmental tasks as a young adult male, his wife works out her growth responsibilities as a young adult female.

"Each learns what it is to be married—and what's expected of them as a husband or wife.

"Both must learn what it means to be an adult with adult responsibilities—at home and in the community," the agent said.

"However, several factors influence the development of young marrieds.

"These include physiological maturation, with its adult drives for ongoing sexual fulfillment, and personal aspirations of each partner to establish their marriage according to dreams built through the years."

Although developmental tasks of the married couple are basic to establishing a family, they differ somewhat in each family, class and culture, Mrs. Wilburn said. "Nevertheless, general aspects include: establishing a home base to call their own; establishing a satisfactory system for earning and spending money; setting acceptable patterns of who does what and who is accountable to whom; mutually satisfying sex relationships; developing systems of intellectual and emotional communications; workable relationships with relatives; establishing interactions with friends, associates and community organizations; facing possibilities of children, planning for them; and establishing a workable philosophy of life as a couple."

However, difficulties sometimes arise—largely due to the task complexity and origin, the agent continued.

For example, what the couple desires and what their culture expects do not always coincide.

"Also, often the reality of a situation conflicts with the couple's dreams. When a couple builds up extravagant ideas of what they want, they may be disappointed if something turns out less than expected.

"In addition, the dreams of a husband and wife may mesh in many respects, but be miles apart in others," the agent concluded.

YOUR AMAZING SINUSES

You've got holes in your head, and you may be suffering because of them. These holes are cavities or channels called sinuses. They're in your cheekbones, above your eyes and behind your nose, and you have between 5 and 15 of them. They connect with the inside of your nose by narrow passageways, which can lead to trouble.

The membranes of the sinuses are susceptible to infection. If the infection blocks the opening, it will cause sinusitis, usually characterized by a headache and, occasionally, high fever. These symptoms can last for weeks. Many people tend to take aspirin to end these headaches and fever, but sometimes this can make those symptoms worse and cause other troubles besides.

Sinus disorders occasionally stem from exposure to allergenic substances, and many people are allergic to aspirin, even though they may not know it. Their reactions to aspirin might be mild, moderate or severe, and may range from skin disorders to a condition which closely resembles shock.

Occasionally, sinusitis can be caused by polyps, little growths in the sinuses, which can be a sign of an aspirin-sensitivity syndrome. Fortunately, for those sensitive to aspirin there is a pain reliever that is unlikely to trigger sensitivity reactions. Marketed as Tylenol analgesic products, it comes in pill, liquid or chewable tablet form. In addition, if a sinusitis-sufferer also has gout, asthma, stomach troubles, allergies, or a condition requiring his taking anti-coagulant drugs, aspirin may add to his problems, but Tylenol products usually won't.

Severe cases of sinusitis sometimes require special drugs, or surgery. Persons with acute or chronic infections of the sinuses should avoid swimming, diving, and strenuous outdoor exercise. Particularly obstinate cases of sinus infection may improve in a hot, dry climate.

Basically, while those holes in your head may sometimes be a pain, you certainly don't want their places to be filled by anything else.

Health Tips Texas Medical Association HAZARDS OF THE GARDEN

The home gardening season is now in full swing throughout Texas. Millions are back at the annual battle with crab grass and insects in the perennial effort to add a touch of natural color and beauty to our Texas scenery.

The Texas Medical Association recommends gardening as a good means of exercise and therapy for almost everyone. But doctors warn that gardening entails some hazards of safety and health, most of which can be avoided.

Yard accidents occur more frequently to amateurs and younger gardeners than to experts or adults. Gardeners who are aware of the potential dangers are less likely to get hurt.

If you have done nothing more strenuous than sit by the fire most of the winter, by all means take it easy for the first few weekends of gardening. Give your muscles a chance to regain strength gradually, rather than trying to do too much the first day out.

Gardening sometimes brings cuts and scratches from twigs, thorns, and sharp tools. First aid usually consists of washing the scratch with soap and water and applying an adhesive bandage. Let it bleed a little to wash away impurities. Deeper cuts, of course, require medical attention.

Learn how to recognize poisonous vines and shrubs, so you can avoid them, or root them out.

Power tools, particularly lawn mowers, are standard equipment for the modern home gardener. Be sure to study the instructions regarding safe usage. If in doubt, check with a mechanic on potential hazards of power tools.

Insect sprays and powders, plus poisons that kill weeds are useful in garden maintenance, but these also have inherent hazards if improperly or carelessly stored or used. Once again, read the directions, especially the warnings.

Bees, wasps, and spiders are out for the spring season too. Occasionally one of them might sting you. For the majority of us, a sting is painful and causes swelling but isn't serious. If you are one of those individuals with an allergy to insect stings, ask your doctor about the desensitizing injections.

And What Have You

Vietnamese to build something worthwhile.

America has been much humbled by the experience of Indo-China. It is to be hoped, as Secretary Kissinger suggested, that it will make the U.S. more mature in its commitments. America is wiser certainly, acutely aware now that it cannot help people create a freer society if they lack the needed will and understanding.

But there is another lesson that bears strong emphasis. This is that an American president cannot hope to win public support for difficult foreign policies if he is not honest. It was the repeated deception in high office that did as much as events on the battlefield to turn Americans against the war. President Johnson got congressional approval for the war on the basis of a distorted account of a minor naval incident. President Nixon deceived the people about the heavy bombing of Cambodia. And when peace finally came, it was not made absolutely clear what commitments the U.S. had undertaken to President Thieu.

What is greatly needed to restore confidence to U.S. foreign policy is more candor and openness. The President and his Secretary of State must not hesitate to tell the public the truth about hard decisions they are expected to support. It is only when the government dissembles, or when officials tell mere half-truths, that cynicism and disbelief are fed and policy undermined.

It is impossible of course to conduct all diplomacy wholly in the open without jeopardizing the confidence of other nations. Classic-style secrecy is often required. But, in a world where the crucial problems are increasingly dealt with in international forum, there should be no uncertainty in Congress or among the public as to what the U.S. is up to. There is room for much more openness, as Mr. Ford has clearly recognized.

Above all, may the U.S. not wallow in a sense of disaster because of Vietnam. This is not the end of everything and in fact it is time for a fresh beginning. There are new opportunities abroad for imaginative, creative policies.

As one observer put it to us, America's thinking about Asia in the past has been largely linked to its own strategic concerns; it has suffered from "intellectual isolation." Now, perhaps, is the moment to deal with Asians in their terms — to find out what it is they want for themselves and from the United States. The Thais, the Filipinos and others already are saying things, and it is clear they do not want the U.S. to abdicate its commitments or get out of Asia.

May America then start listening, and take heart for the opportunities and challenges that lie ahead.

MOTHER

It is so important that a child feel secure and loved the first weeks and months of its life. Our foremost authorities say that if a child's spiritual and emotional welfare is neglected in the early weeks of life, there is a great chance of permanent damage to its personality growth.

Therefore, on this day, we honor not only the beloved mothers of our adults and youth, but the very young mother who has both the tremendous responsibility and the precious opportunity to mold the life and character of the very young child. May she seek early God's help, who in the person of the Son, said, "Suffer the little children to come unto me."

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Sen. Farabee Seeks Relief for Rural Areas

Austin — State Senator Ray Farabee successfully argued this week for a compromise that would take into account the rural areas of the state. The bill which was being considered would set statewide standards for ambulance service.

During the course of Senate debate Farabee argued that many rural areas could not afford the cost of meeting the standards set out in the bill. Farabee noted, "It's important that the distinction be made in legislation between the problems of some place like Houston or Dallas and areas like Jones County. The problems are vastly different and what can be afforded in Harris County can't necessarily be afforded in our rural areas."

Senator Farabee's amendment to the bill exempts counties with a population of 25,000 or under from the rigorous standards set out in the legislation. Senator Farabee explained, "It is one thing to require these standards for an ambulance that makes 5, 10, or 25 trips per day... it is quite another thing to require that of an ambulance that makes substantially fewer trips, perhaps one or two trips per month."

My amendment to this legislation is simply an effort to more closely tailor this bill to the circumstances that exist in the rural areas and smaller cities. The amendment recognizes a difference in their economic capabilities and in the level of service they can provide. With this change the bill allows large cities in metropolitan areas to meet these standards but it exempts smaller areas which simply couldn't afford this and still have any kind of an ambulance service."

Senator Farabee also noted that many volunteer organizations in rural areas, such as volunteer firemen, strive to provide ambulance service to areas that would otherwise be without it.

Farabee said he thought it would be wrong to force these people to undergo the training requirements originally set out in the bill since the time and expense involved would be prohibitive for many of these volunteers. Farabee also said that if improvements were needed in ambulance service he hoped the state would work with local communities on a voluntary basis.

Texas Outdoors

W.R. Long
Texas Parks & Wildlife Department

Somewhere near you there is a lake with walleye growing to catchable size. The one big question foremost in the mind of the angler is, "How do you catch them?"

This writer has questioned people in the know: Bob Kemp, Director of Fisheries for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department; Lonnie Peters, Inland Fisheries Coordinator; Larry Campbell of San Angelo, Leader for statewide walleye production; and hatchery people and fishermen.

Catching walleye is much like trying to please a mother-in-law. Some days, yes; others, no. But, the fish can and will strike a lure or bait, although the fishing is difficult.

Walleye apparently have periods of peak activity. Daylight hours generally finds them in deep water, making trolling a productive method. Twilight (late evening or early in the morning) they are likely to be in shallow water, feeding, vulnerable to the angler.

Most of the anglers who fish Meredith, Cypress Springs, Garza-Little Elm and have been moderately successful say the best bet for trolling is a spinner and a live minnow. SLOW is the key word. Let the lure and bait bump the bottom now and then, just enough to keep the blade turning, get out into water more than 10 to 15 feet deep, work near rock piles or down deep on flat open places. Of course, a couple of minnows on a couple of snelled hooks with rod and reel, in deepest water, has produced many. Remember two things: A strong leader is a must because walleye have sharp teeth and are able to cut a line, and too, they are easily spooked. If you are casting shallower areas you might use the same type of spinner-minnow combination, SLOWLY, but be as quiet as possible. A walleye is as jumpy as a shot-at wild turkey, and they'll leave the area if there is undue noise.

Many of us remember some 40 year ago when no one really appreciated the largemouth bass because they were too temperamental about striking. But they learned how, and so they will on walleye. It's just a different type of fishing but for a highly desirable prize.

Experiment with lures and with live bait. You'll learn. After all, more than 20 million walleye were stocked last year, more than 20 million will go into public waters this year, and they may get from 15 pounds upwards in weight, so it's safe to say the fish is one for the future, and now... it's here to stay.

Cafeteria originates from the Spanish words for retail coffee store, from which evolved self-service restaurants.

House Passes Property Tax Bill

AUSTIN — Major legislation bearing on property tax values throughout the State has been passed by the House and sent to the Senate.

Representatives approved two separate measures which some contend provide for "the first major overhaul of the property tax structure in Texas this century."

HB 637 by Rep. Luther Jones of El Paso establishes a legislative tax board which will conduct an $8 million statewide audit of taxable property during the next two years.

HB 1463 by Rep. Wayne Peveto of Orange would direct all property tax appraisals to be made by countywide offices. Local taxing authorities would still establish their own tax rates and assessment ratios under the legislation.

The State Comptroller's office would develop standards and procedures for the county tax appraisers.

Both bills are regarded as important to school finance reform. Many of the school measures would base allocation of state aid on market value of district property.

VOTE BILLS ADVANCED
Bills important to the legislative process cleared the House in a busy week.

HB 4 revises the 1973 campaign reporting and disclosure act, and establishes a bipartisan commission to enforce it.

SB 300, with a controversial party purity amendment attached, provides for a computer-policed permanent voter registration system. The measure returns to the Senate, which previously has rejected the "purity" provision requiring voters to register by party preference.

Other major bills passed by the House last week would provide for establishment of Health Maintenance Organizations (SB 180) and encourage rape victims (HB 284) to report crimes and aid prosecutors in getting convictions. The HMO bill went back to the Senate with a minor amendment and is expected soon to be signed into law.

LAWYERS CURBED
A State Bar of Texas Committee on Professional Ethics has held city councilmen and mayors who are lawyers should not practice in municipal courts or represent clients in cases initiated by city police officers.

Morris Hassell of Rusk, committee chairman, said some of the same reasoning used in the opinion could be applied to legislators practicing before state agencies.

COURTS SPEAK
A State Supreme Court decision cast doubts on cities' rights to regulate telephone rates for "extended metropolitan area service." The high court upheld an intermediate House court finding that a city has no inherent power to regulate utility rates, but only that granted by the legislature.

The Supreme Court also affirmed a $139,194 damage judgment against a Houston finance firm following the death of a man from a heart attack after efforts to collect a $158 debt.

In another case, the high court found no usury in a Dallas savings association's $24,985 profit from arranging a $150,000 loan for a development firm.

AG OPINIONS
The legislature has authority to require public utilities to refund to customers excessive rates, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, the Attorney General concluded:

—A commissioners Court is not required to call an election for purpose of invalidating previously authorized road bonds on presentation of a petition.

—The legislature may alter the method of selecting members of public service boards so long as the agencies' economic obligations are not impaired.

—A commissioners court's mere refusal to ratify a prior action allegedly taken in violation of the open meetings act does not of itself have the effect of invalidating the earlier action.

SHORT SNORTS
The Governor entered into an agreement with the U.S. Department of Labor allowing unemployed Texans to receive an extension of up to 13 weeks in unemployment benefits.

School Land Board announced bids will be received for a large oil and gas lease sale June 3. Another sale is scheduled at the same time for Texas Youth Council, Parks and Wildlife Department and Department of Corrections lands.

The Senate passed a bill to require coverage of alcoholism in health and accident insurance policies.

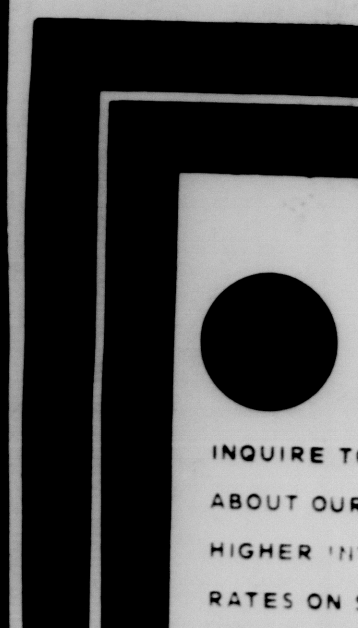

Quick Quiz! by Thompson

Americans love to save time, and power lawn mowers are great time-savers. However, if you're careless they can cause accidents. Why not take this quick quiz to find out if you're playing it safe while pushing your power mower?

1. It is unsafe to cut grass while it is wet. True () False ()
2. As soon as you turn off your engine, it is safe to clean the blade. True () False ()
3. Mow steep slopes sideways with a walk-behind mower. True () False ()
4. The latest power mowers, especially the riding mowers, are powerful enough to safely chop up dead branches and other debris lying in the grass. True () False ()

ANSWERS: 1. True, says the Outdoor Power Equipment Institute. Wet grass can cause you to slip and lose control. Also, avoid using a plug-in electric mower in the rain or on wet grass. 2. False. Without the spark plug disconnected, the blade can be started up again if turned by hand. Disconnect the spark plug, or better yet, remove it before touching the blade. 3. True. Hills and slopes should always be cut side-ways with a walk-behind mower to avoid slipping and possibly pulling the power mower over you. 4. False. Always make sure your lawn is clear of sticks, stones, wire and other debris which could be thrown by the blade.

Philosopher Does Something Unheard Of; Tries His Hand At Reviewing A Book

Editor's note: The Neinda Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Route One abandons world affairs this week to do something highly uncharacteristic.

Dear editor:

Me reviewing a book is about like a tractor driver trying to land a four-engine jet on a short run-way, but this week I've tackled the problem, letting world affairs slide for a few days.

The reason I tackled it is that the publisher of the book sent me a free copy with a note saying, "Here, this'll get your mind off of the world's troubles."

He's right. It got my mind off of nearly everything. The world's problems are no laughing matter, but this book is.

Anyway, it's called "THE 2000-MILE TURTLE. And Other Episodes From Editor Harold Smith's Private Journal," and I don't see how it's going to sell because there's no sex or four-letter words in it. Certainly it isn't fit material for a modern movie.

It tells about how an editor—not the editor of The Herald—succeeded in the newspaper business with the slightly underhanded use of a huge turtle, plus a lot of other things, like how to fix a leaky roof if you leave town before the second rain, how to sell barbwire to a doctor, how a high school football player got even with a referee without hitting him, how to

out-smart the post office, how a legislator who doesn't leave office richer than he went in is considered by his fellow-members as incompetent, how a Congressman went down to defeat because he read one of his home district's newspapers too closely, how to get everybody to vote without the politicians' spending a single cent, how an editor out-witted some old codgers around the court house square, and a lot of other stuff all innocently told in a sort of unclassifiable book.

I'd lend my copy to anybody who's interested but the author claims it'd be against the principles of the welfare state, if not unpatriotic. Says use your tax rebate and buy your own.

Your faithfully,
J.A.

Reddy's helpful tips for your Dishwasher

- A dishwasher will usually hold a whole day's dishes. It takes as much hot water and energy to wash 1 dish as it does a full load. Stack your dishes out of sight in your dishwasher and wait until you have a full load to turn it on.
- Use only detergents manufactured specifically for dishwashers. A wetting agent helps prevent water spots on glasses and silverware.
- Clean the filter screen often. A clogged filter can reduce the efficiency of your dishwasher.

Dedication Service Saturday For Sylvester Tabernacle

The people of Sylvester are inviting interested persons to attend dedication service for a new tabernacle Saturday. This new structure sits on the site of the old one that blew away during a tornado in the early 1950's. It is on the hill just across from the old building that once housed the Josey and Scott General Mercantile.

Everyone who would like to participate in the noon luncheon is requested to bring a covered dish. No time has been set for people to arrive Saturday morning. The dedication service will follow the luncheon. When plans began to take shape for the building of the tabernacle, officers were elected.

Mrs. Thurman Douglass is the chairman; Mrs. Fred Fountain, vice chairman; and Mrs. Raymond Kiser, secretary-treasurer. A general committee was chosen, consisting of Mrs. Charlie Meek, Mrs. Alfred Douglass, Mrs. Velma Reed, Thurman Douglass, Alfred Douglass and Charles H. Scott.

Thurman Douglass has been in complete charge of the planning, the securing of materials, and the construction. Many have donated help.

Donations of money have come in from many places, as word spread of the project. In the past each of Sylvester's three churches—the Baptist, the Methodist, and the Church of Christ—held their summer revivals in the open-air tabernacle. Denominational barriers were forgotten, as everyone went to all three meetings. This is the way the sponsors want the tabernacle to be used.

Anyone wishing to donate to the tabernacle fund should send the money to the Sylvester Tabernacle Association, C.O. Billie Kiser, Box 141, Sylvester, Texas 79560.

FOR LONGER CAR LIFE

Your mechanic wants to help you. Understanding your car may help you to help him. by Daniel Fairchild, Vice-President—Engineering Fram Automotive Division

Oil Filter Is Cheap Insurance

Do you think twice and then say "no" when your automotive serviceman suggests replacing the filter when you have your car's engine oil changed? Think a third time in the future, for this is a basic example of false economy. Here's why: the oil filter contains the dirtiest quart of oil in your car's engine. It's where all of the contamination, acid and grit from the engine are trapped, to protect those vital parts. So when you drain the old oil and pour in 4 or 5 quarts of clean oil, it immediately mixes with that dirtiest quart and you're well on your way to contaminating that fresh crankcase of oil.

Fairchild

Your car's engine bearings ride on a film of oil that is only about two one-thousandths of an inch thick. Any given point on the fast-moving crankshaft passes any given point on its bearings up to 7,000 times a minute. It doesn't take a very big chunk of dirt to do serious damage to those vital, fast-moving parts.

Fortunately, oil chemists have developed detergent oils that serve as cleaning solutions for your engine, flushing away fine particles of dirt and trapping them in the oil filter where they will do no harm.

So for maximum engine life and for more efficient engine operation, change your filter when you change your oil. It's cheap engine insurance.

Vietnamese Evacuees — — Three Visiting In Home Here

A local woman sees her father on television arriving in the United States with Vietnamese evacuees one evening and the next thing she hears from him is when he calls from Abilene where he has just flown in. With him are three of the evacuees.

Delmar Parsley, father of Mrs. Barry (Loretta) Moore, who had been in Saigon for seven years with Pacific Architect and Engineers, had to leave there last October.

When he learned that Americans could bring people out of Vietnam, he returned to locate friends there and make plans for their evacuation.

Parsley worked with the Orangevale Assembly of God Church near Sacramento, Calif., to get assistance in bringing the evacuees out. Normal procedure usually took three months and a lot of money, he said. American officials apparently did not expect the end to come so quickly, he surmised.

Americans could stay in Vietnam for seven days at one time and then they had to leave the country. Parsley went to Vietnam April 2 and stayed the allotted time making arrangements. He then went to Singapore until he could return to Saigon. In Singapore he was again assisted by the Assembly of God Church.

When word came from President Ford to speed up the processing and get the people out of Saigon, he said that everything was handled quickly. In fact, he said, those in Tan Son Nhut were forbidden to leave to get others to bring with them.

He was able to bring out nine persons. A 68-year-old man who had been running from the communist for 25 years, came with his daughter, 36, her two sons, ages eight and nine, and two other grandsons, 14 and 15. They stayed in Sacramento, Calif., with friends of Parsley who will assist them in securing sponsors in this country.

With Parsley in Hamlin are a 25-year-old mother and her two children, a girl, 2, and a boy, 3½. The Moores met them Saturday evening in Abilene.

Parsley and his group left Saigon April 27. They were in Guam April 27, 28 and 29 for preliminary processing. From there they next landed at the Marine base at El Toro, Calif., and went on to Camp Pendleton, one of the three processing centers in the U. S.

While visiting with the Moores, Parsley and the mother, Hue (pronounced Whey), the son Binh (Ben) and the daughter, Mai (My) are getting used to the time difference and resting.

Mrs. Moore said that the children were very shy at first but are now beginning to play. Binh is called "Bun" by the family and he and the Moores' son Fred Barry are finding a way of communicating through play. Hue speaks some English.

The Vietnamese have been sustained on a diet of rice and fish but are adapting to American foods. Mrs. Moore said the only difficulty at mealtime had been when hamburgers were served. They did not really care for the hamburgers, she said.

When Parsley's position as facilities engineering manager with PAE was terminated last October, he became actively engaged in an export business in Singapore which he owns with two others.

He plans to make arrangements for the evacuees and expects to be in the U.S. about two months.

School Board Interviews Six Architectural Firms

The Board of Trustees of the Hamlin Independent School District interviewed six architectural firms in two special called sessions last week. The board is interviewing firms to replace the junior high building lost in the March fire.

They also heard a report from Don Williams, assistant director of the Region 14 Service Center in Abilene, on the district's application for National Defense Educational Act funds. The District has received tentative approval for about $70,000 to replace equipment, books and other supplies lost in the recent fire.

The board gave approval of a contract to repair the roof at the high school building and accepted the resignation of two teachers. Submitting their resignations were Mrs. Joe Norton and Mrs. Pat Willoughby.

The board also reinstated Mrs. Becky Brown who has been on a leave of absence and hired Mrs. Sharon Neighbors as a junior high English and Physical Education teacher. Mrs. Neighbors is a Roby High School graduate and a recent graduate of Hardin-Simmons University. She has been doing her student teaching in Anson.

Debi Cary Takes Second At State Meet

When Debi Cary, a Hamlin High School junior, placed second in the State University Interscholastic League Contest in Austin Saturday, it was her teacher's first time to accompany a student in typing to the state contests.

Miss Dora Mitchell, HHS business teacher, went to the state competition first with Debi's mother, Mrs. Robert Cary, in shorthand. Mrs. Cary is the former Joye Bigham and she competed in shorthand in 1956.

Debi placed second out of a field of 60 beginning typists in Class AA. She scored 145.5798 and was typing at a rate of 69.88 words a minute.

Others who have gone to state meets from Hamlin under the guidance of Miss Mitchell were Ginger Means and Elizabeth Norton, both in 1957; and Elva Siburt in 1958.

Leaner Beef To Meet New USDA Standards

AUSTIN--Revised U.S. grade standards for beef will become effective April 14, making it possible for slightly leaner beef to qualify for grades USDA Prime and Choice.

According to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White, the revisions will also establish a more restrictive Good grade, increase uniformity in eating characteristics (tenderness, juiciness and flavor), and require that all graded beef be identified for quality and yield or ratio of fat to lean.

U.S. Department of Agriculture officials said the long-range effect of applying yield to all graded carcasses could be the most significant factor in reducing the amount of excess fat on cattle and beef.

Most of the cost of producing, shipping and trimming excess fat could be avoided by increasing the number of cattle which can produce thickly muscled, high quality beef with little excess fat.

Officials said greater production of this type of cattle can be hastened through price incentives.

Federal grading of beef is a voluntary service for which users pay a fee. USDA yield grades, number 1 through 5, measure percentage of trimmed retail cuts a carcass will produce. Quality grades like Prime, Choice and Good measure tenderness, juiciness and flavor and are based primarily on marbling and maturity.

The revision will eliminate a third grading factor, conformation or shape of carcass, which does not effect the eating characteristics of beef.

"Consumers have come to expect high quality Choice beef, which is sold in most supermarkets," White said. "But those who want leaner beef at a lower price will be pleased with the redesigned Good grade."

"The range of quality characteristics of Good has been reduced by about 50 percent which will result in a highly uniform, consistently palatable product," he continued. "Because this quality of beef can be produced at a lower cost than Prime or Choice, consumers may be seeing more of it in the market."

Sound, Slide Show Traces Agriculture

AUSTIN--"This Land of Texas," a sound and slide show tracing Texas agriculture from its beginning to modern times, is available for showing at public gatherings, according to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

The 20-minute show employs five screens, music and narration to tell its story. Two department employees travel with the program, which has been shown at service clubs, high schools and public gatherings. There is no charge.

For further information write Commissioner John C. White, Public Information Section, Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Tex. 78711.

You don't have to spend a lot of money making long distance calls for reservations at foreign hotels. You can reserve a room at any one of the 1,700 Holiday Inns on six continents around the world simply by calling a nearby Holiday Inn before you leave home.

Never deal with money changing strangers in the streets of foreign countries. Their exchange rate may be good, but their money is often bad.

An important part of the popularity of aluminum in and around the home is that it is by nature a low maintenance material. But aluminum products do become dirty and require occasional cleaning.

Because harsh cleaners do more harm than good, the rule of thumb about cleaning aluminum is to use the least strong cleaner that will do the job. The No. 1 rule, therefore, is water and that, water and mild.

Aluminum shining effectively cleaned by hand-dipped brush, or hollow-brush, used for washing, make a practice.

Advertising... a vote of confidence in business. (or how to tell the leaders without a scorecard.)

Recently there has been a lot of talk about upturns, downturns, and sideturns in business and industry.

You ask a man these days how the "outlook" appears to him, and you're liable to get a diagonal reply. Not a straight up-and-down nod. Not even a negative, sideways shake of the head.

Mostly the diagonal approach. It doesn't mean yes, business is going up. It doesn't mean no, it isn't.

The answer you frequently get is we'll wait and see. Inflation and some of the other unrests, you know

So the man and his company pull their horns in.

They wait for someone else to "take the lead," they say: No sense sticking our heads out until the situation "improves" itself.

In other words, sure we'll advertise -- or restore our budgets -- just as soon as we get more business.

Beautiful.

Everyone hangs around and waits for everything to happen automatically. Hold up. Cut back. Wait. The Prosperity Wagon is right around the corner. And it's going to come to me, old friend, me. Without me going out to get it.

Want to bet?

One thing about this economy of ours has never changed. A lack of confidence in our business system, manifested across business, only, inspires more of the same. With the result that that wagon may be farther down the block than you think.

Business activity stimulates business.

Advertising helps you get sales.

Companies, agencies and media that advertise should be the ones you do business with, because we suspect you'd rather do business with confident people.

They take the time, trouble and money to inform you -- to help you know more -- about their products, their services and their markets. They care enough about you to go out of their way to tell you they want to do business with you.

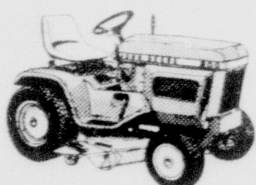

We suspect that when the chips are down, this is how you can tell the real leaders.

They get our vote.

They also should get yours. If for no other reason than they are helping to build business for both of us.

Today's Young Marrieds Face Many Changes, Challenges

Exchanging "I do's" brings young couples face-to-face with many changes. This change in marital status also calls for different responsibilities and developmental tasks (growth needs). Nacey Wilburn, County Extension Agent, noted.

"While the husband attempts new developmental tasks as a young adult male, his wife works out her growth responsibilities as a young adult female.

"Each learns what it is to be married—and what's expected of them as a husband or wife.

"Both must learn what it means to be an adult with adult responsibilities—at home and in the community," the agent said.

"However, several factors influence the development of young marrieds.

"These include physiological maturation, with its adult drives for ongoing sexual fulfillment, and personal aspirations of each partner to establish their marriage according to dreams built through the years."

Although developmental tasks of the married couple are basic to establishing a family, they differ somewhat in each family, class and culture, Mrs. Wilburn said.

"Nevertheless, general

aspects include: establishing a home base to call their own; establishing a satisfactory system for earning and spending money; setting acceptable patterns of who does what and who is accountable to whom; mutually satisfying sex relationships; developing systems of intellectual and emotional communications; workable relationships with relatives; establishing interactions with friends, associates and community organizations; facing possibilities of children, planning for them; and establishing a workable philosophy of life as a couple."

However, difficulties sometimes arise—largely due to the task complexity and origin, the agent continued.

For example, what the couple desires and what their culture expects do not always coincide.

"Also, often the reality of a situation conflicts with the couple's dreams. When a couple builds up extravagant ideas of what they want, they may be disappointed if something turns out less than expected.

"In addition, the dreams of a husband and wife may mesh in many respects, but be miles apart in others," the agent concluded.

YOUR AMAZING SINUSES

You've got holes in your head, and you may be suffering because of them. These holes are cavities or channels called sinuses. They're in your cheekbones, above your eyes and behind your nose, and you have between 5 and 15 of them. They connect with the inside of your nose by narrow passageways, which can lead to trouble.

The membranes of the sinuses are susceptible to infection. If the infection blocks the opening, it will cause sinusitis, usually characterized by a headache and, occasionally, high fever. These symptoms can last for weeks. Many people tend to take aspirin to end these headaches and fever, but sometimes this can make those symptoms worse and cause other troubles besides.

Sinus disorders occasionally stem from exposure to allergenic substances, and many people are allergic to aspirin, even though they may not know it. Their reactions to aspirin might be mild, moderate or severe, and may range from skin disorders to a condition which closely resembles shock.

Occasionally, sinusitis can be caused by polyps, little growths in the sinuses, which can be a sign of an aspirin-sensitivity syndrome. Fortunately, for those sensitive to aspirin their is a pain reliever that is unlikely to trigger sensitivity reactions. Marketed as Tylenol® analgesic products, it comes in pill, liquid or chewable tablet form. In addition, if a sinusitis-sufferer also has gout, asthma, stomach troubles, allergies, or a condition requiring his taking anticoagulant drugs, aspirin may add to his problems, but Tylenol products usually won't.

Severe cases of sinusitis sometimes require special drugs, or surgery. Persons with acute or chronic infections of the sinuses should avoid swimming, diving, and strenuous outdoor exercise. Particularly obstinate cases of sinus infection may improve in a hot, dry climate.

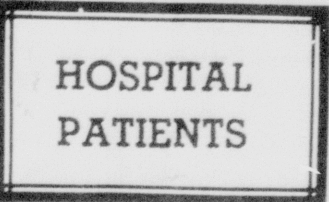

Basically, while those holes in your head may sometimes be a pain, you certainly don't want their places to be filled by anything else.

Health Tips Texas Medical Association HAZARDS OF THE GARDEN

The home gardening season is now in full swing throughout Texas. Millions are back at the annual battle with crab grass and insects in the perennial effort to add a touch of natural color and beauty to our Texas scenery.

The Texas Medical Association recommends gardening as a good means of exercise and therapy for almost everyone. But doctors warn that gardening entails some hazards of safety and health, most of which can be avoided.

Yard accidents occur more frequently to amateurs and younger gardeners than to experts or adults. Gardeners who are aware of the potential dangers are less likely to get hurt.

If you have done nothing more strenuous than sit by the fire most of the winter, by all means take it easy for the first few weekends of gardening. Give your muscles a chance to regain strength gradually, rather than trying to do too much the first day out.

Gardening sometimes brings cuts and scratches from twigs, thorns, and sharp tools. First aid usually consists of washing the scratch with soap and water and applying an adhesive bandage. Let it bleed a little to wash away impurities. Deeper cuts, of course, require medical attention.

Learn how to recognize poisonous vines and shrubs, so you can avoid them, or root them out. Power tools, particularly lawn mowers, are standard equipment for the modern home gardener. Be sure to study the instructions regarding safe usage. If in doubt, check with a mechanic on potential hazards of power tools.

Insect sprays and powders, plus poisons that kill weeds are useful in garden maintenance, but these also have inherent hazards if improperly or carelessly stored or used. Once again, read the directions, especially the warnings.

Bees, wasps, and spiders are out for the spring season too. Occasionally one of them might sting you. For the majority of us, a sting is painful and causes swelling but isn't serious. If you are one of those individuals with an allergy to insect stings, ask your doctor about the desensitizing injections.

Select garden tools with care. Use the right tool for the job at hand, and keep tools in good condition, clean and sharp. Dull tools are unsafe. Broken tools are dangerous. Rusty tools are difficult to use. Store tools in a safe place. Lying on the ground or piled carelessly in a corner, tools can cause accidents.

NEWS AND VIEWS . . . And What Have You — Continued from page One

Vietnamese to build something worthwhile.

America has been much humbled by the experience of Indo-China. It is to be hoped, as Secretary Kissinger suggested, that it will make the U.S. more mature in its commitments. America is wiser certainly, acutely aware now that it cannot help people create a freer society if they lack the needed will and understanding.

But there is another lesson that bears strong emphasis. This is that an American president cannot hope to win public support for difficult foreign policies if he is not honest. It was the repeated deception in high office that did as much as events on the battlefield to turn Americans against the war.

President Johnson got congressional approval for the war on the basis of a distorted account of a minor naval incident. President Nixon deceived the people about the heavy bombing of Cambodia. And when peace finally came, it was not made absolutely clear what commitments the U.S. had undertaken to President Thieu.

What is greatly needed to restore confidence to U.S. foreign policy is more candor and openness. The President and his Secretary of State must not hesitate to tell the public the truth about hard decisions they are expected to support. It is only when the government dissembles, or when officials tell mere half-truths, that cynicism and disbelief are fed and policy undermined.

It is impossible of course to conduct all diplomacy wholly in the open without jeopardizing the confidence of other nations. Classic-style secrecy is often required. But, in a world where the crucial problems are increasingly dealt with in international forum, there should be no uncertainty in Congress or among the public as to what the U.S. is up to. There is room for much more openness, as Mr. Ford has clearly recognized.

Above all, may the U.S. not wallow in a sense of disaster because of Vietnam. This is not the end of everything and in fact it is time for a fresh beginning. There are new opportunities abroad for imaginative, creative policies.

As one observer put it to us, America's thinking about Asia in the past has been largely linked to its own strategic concerns; it has suffered from "intellectual isolation." Now, perhaps, is the moment to deal with Asians in their terms — to find out what it is they want for themselves and from the United States. The Thais, the Filipinos and others already are saying things, and it is clear they do not want the U.S. to abdicate its commitments or get out of Asia.

May America then start listening, and take heart for the opportunities and challenges that lie ahead.

MOTHER

It is so important that a child feel secure and loved the first weeks and months of its life. Our foremost authorities say that if a child's spiritual and emotional welfare is neglected in the early weeks of life, there is a great chance of permanent damage to its personality growth.

Therefore, on this day, we honor not only the beloved mothers of our adults and youth, but the very young mother who has both the tremendous responsibility and the precious opportunity to mold the life and character of the very young child. May she seek early God's help, who in the person of the Son, said, "Suffer the little children to come unto me."

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Sen. Farabee Seeks Relief for Rural Areas

Austin—State Senator Ray Farabee successfully argued this week for a compromise that would take into account the rural areas of the state. The bill which was being considered would set statewide standards for ambulance service.

During the course of Senate debate Farabee argued that many rural areas could not afford the cost of meeting the standards set out in the bill. Farabee noted, "It's important that the distinction be made in legislation between the problems of some place like Houston or Dallas and areas like Jones County. The problems are vastly different and what can be afforded in Harris County can't necessarily be afforded in our rural areas."

Senator Farabee's amendment to the bill exempts counties with a population of 25,000 or under from the rigorous standards set out in the legislation. Senator Farabee explained, "It is one thing to require these standards for an ambulance that makes 5, 10, or 25 trips per day. . . it is quite another thing to require that of an ambulance that makes substantially fewer trips, perhaps one or two trips per month."

My amendment to this legislation is simply an effort to more closely tailor this bill to the circumstances that exist in the rural areas and smaller cities. The amendment recognizes a difference in their economic capabilities and in the level of service they can provide. With this change the bill allows large cities in metropolitan areas to meet these standards but it exempts smaller areas which simply couldn't afford this and still have any kind of an ambulance service."

Senator Farabee also noted that many volunteer organizations in rural areas, such as volunteer firemen, strive to provide ambulance service to areas that would otherwise be without it.

Farabee said he thought it would be wrong to force these people to undergo the training requirements originally set out in the bill since the time and expense involved would be prohibitive for many of these volunteers. Farabee also said that if improvements were needed in ambulance service he hoped the state would work with local communities on a voluntary basis.

Texas Parks & Wildlife Department

Somewhere near you there is a lake with walleye growing to catchable size. The one big question foremost in the mind of the angler is, "How do you catch them?"

This writer has questioned people in the know: Bob Kemp, Director of Fisheries for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department; Lonnie Peters, Inland Fisheries Coordinator; Larry Campbell of San Angelo, Leader for statewide walleye production, and hatchery people and fishermen.

Catching walleye is much like trying to please a mother-in-law. Some days, yes; others, no. But, the fish can and will strike a lure or bait, although the fishing is difficult.

Walleye apparently have periods of peak activity. Daylight hours generally finds them in deep water, making trolling a productive method. Twilight (late evening or early in the morning) they are likely to be in shallow water, feeding, vulnerable to the angler.

Most of the anglers who fish Meredith, Cypress Springs, Garza-Little Elm and have been moderately successful say the best bet for trolling is a spinner and a live minnow. SLOW is the key word. Let the lure and bait bump the bottom now and then, just enough to keep the blade turning, get out into water more than 10 to 15 feet deep, work near rock piles or down deep on flat open places. Of course, a couple of minnows on a couple of snelled hooks with rod and reel, in deepest water, has produced many. Remember two things: A strong leader is a must because walleye have sharp teeth and are able to cut a line, and too, they are easily spooked. If you are casting shallower areas you might use the same type of spinner-minnow combination, SLOWLY, but be as quiet as possible. A walleye is as jumpy as a shot-at wild turkey, and they'll leave the area if there is undue noise.

Many of us remember some 40 year ago when no one really appreciated the largemouth bass because they were too temperamental about striking. But they learned how, and so they will on walleye. It's just a different type of fishing but for a highly desirable prize.

Experiment with lures and with live bait. You'll learn. After all, more than 20 million walleye were stocked last year, more than 20 million will go into public waters this year, and they may get from 15 pounds upwards in weight, so it's safe to say the fish is one for the future, and now . . . it's here to stay.

Cafeteria originates from the Spanish words for retail coffee store, from which evolved self-service restaurants.

The average weight of the human brain is 48 ounces.

House Passes Property Tax Bill

AUSTIN — Major legislation bearing on property tax values throughout the State has been passed by the House and sent to the Senate.

Representatives approved two separate measures which some contend provide for "the first major overhaul of the property tax structure in Texas this century."

HB 637 by Rep. Luther Jones of El Paso establishes a legislative tax board which will conduct an $8 million statewide audit of taxable property during the next two years.

HB 1463 by Rep. Wayne Peveto of Orange would direct all property tax appraisals to be made by countywide offices. Local taxing authorities would still establish their own tax rates and assessment ratios under the legislation.

The State Comptroller's office would develop standards and procedures for the county tax appraisers.

Both bills are regarded as important to school finance reform. Many of the school measures would base allocation of state aid on market value of district property.

VOTE BILLS ADVANCED

Bills important to the legislative process cleared the House in a busy week.

HB 4 revises the 1973 campaign reporting and disclosure act, and establishes a bipartisan commission to enforce it.

SB 300, with a controversial party purity amendment attached, provides for a computer-policed permanent voter registration system. The measure returns to the Senate, which previously has rejected the "purity" provision requiring voters to register by party preference.

Other major bills passed by the House last week provide for establishment of Health Maintenance Organizations (SB 180) and encourage rape victims (HB 284) to report crimes and aid prosecutors in getting convictions. The HMO bill went back to the Senate with a minor amendment and is expected soon to be signed into law.

LAWYERS CURBED
A State Bar of Texas Committee on Professional Ethics has held city councilmen and mayors who are lawyers should not practice in municipal courts or represent clients in cases initiated by city police officers.

Morris Hassell of Rusk, committee chairman, said some of the same reasoning used in the opinion could be applied to legislators practicing before state agencies.

COURTS SPEAK
A State Supreme Court decision cast doubts on cities' rights to regulate telephone rates for "extended metropolitan area service." The high court upheld an intermediate House court finding that a city has no inherent power to regulate utility rates, but only that granted by the legislature.

The Supreme Court also affirmed a $139,194 damage judgment against a Houston finance firm following the death of a man from a heart attack after efforts to collect a $158 debt.

In another case, the high court found no usury in a Dallas savings association's $24,985 profit from arranging a $150,000 loan for a development firm.

AG OPINIONS
The legislature has authority to require public utilities to refund to customers excessive rates, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, the Attorney General concluded:

—A commissioners Court is not required to call an election for purpose of invalidating previously-authorized road bonds on presentation of a petition.

—The legislature may alter the method of selecting members of public service boards so long as the agencies' economic obligations are not impaired.

—A commissioners court's mere refusal to ratify a prior action allegedly taken in violation of the open meetings act does not of itself have the effect of invalidating the earlier action.

SHORT SNORTS

The Governor entered into an agreement with the U.S. Department of Labor allowing unemployed Texans to receive an extension of up to 13 weeks in unemployment benefits.

School Land Board announced bids will be received for a large oil and gas lease sale June 3. Another sale is scheduled at the same time for Texas Youth Council, Parks and Wildlife Department and Department of Corrections lands.

The Senate passed a bill to require coverage of alcoholism in health and accident insurance policies.

Quick Quiz! by Thompson

Americans love to save time, and power lawn mowers are great time-savers. However, if you're careless they can cause accidents. Why not take this quick quiz to find out if you're playing it safe while pushing your power mower?

1. It is unsafe to cut grass while it is wet. True () False ()

2. As soon as you turn off your engine, it is safe to clean the blade. True () False ()

3. Mow steep slopes sideways with a walk-behind mower. True () False ()

4. The latest power mowers, especially the riding mowers, are powerful enough to safely chop up dead branches and other debris lying in the grass. True () False ()

ANSWERS: 1. True, says the Outdoor Power Equipment Institute. Wet grass can cause you to slip and lose control. Also, avoid using a plug-in electric mower in the rain or on wet grass.

2. False. Without the spark plug disconnected, the blade can be started up again if turned by hand. Disconnect the spark plug, or better yet, remove it before touching the blade.

3. True. Hills and slopes should always be cut side-ways with a walk-behind mower to avoid slipping and possibly pulling the power mower over you.

4. False. Always make sure your lawn is clear of debris regardless of the type of power mower used. Sticks, stones, wire and other debris could be thrown by the blade.

Philosopher Does Something Unheard Of; Tries His Hand At Reviewing A Book

Editor's note: The Neinda Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Route One abandons world affairs this week to do something highly uncharacteristic.

Dear editor:

Me reviewing a book is about like a tractor driver trying to land a four-engine jet on a short run-way, but this week I've tackled the problem, letting world affairs slide for a few days.

The reason I tackled it is that the publisher of the book sent me a free copy with a note saying, "Here, this'll get your mind off of the world's troubles."

He's right. It got my mind off of nearly everything. The world's problems are no laughing matter, but this book is.

Anyway, it's called "THE 2000-MILE TURTLE. And Other Episodes From Editor Harold Smith's Private Journal," and I don't see how it's going to sell because there's no sex or four-letter words in it. Certainly it isn't fit material for a modern movie.

It tells about how an editor—not the editor of The Herald—succeeded in the newspaper business with the slightly underhanded use of a huge turtle, plus a lot of other things, like how to fix a leaky roof if you leave town before the second rain, how to sell barbwire to a doctor, how a high school football player got even with a referee without hitting him, how to

out-smart the post office, how a legislator who doesn't leave office richer than he went in is considered by his fellow-members as incompetent, how a Congressman went down to defeat because he read one of his home district's newspapers too closely, how to get everybody to vote without the politicians' spending a single cent, how an editor out-witted some old codgers around the court house square, and a lot of other stuff all innocently told in a sort of unclassifiable book.

I'd lend my copy to anybody who's interested but the author claims it'd be against the principles of the welfare state, if not unpatriotic. Says use your tax rebate and buy your own.

Your faithfully, J.A.

He won't cry anymore.

It's too late for Jimmy.

Reddy's helpful tips for your Dishwasher

- A dishwasher will usually hold a whole day's dishes. It takes as much hot water and energy to wash 1 dish as it does a full load. Stack your dishes out of sight in your dishwasher and wait until you have a full load to turn it on.
- Use only detergents manufactured specifically for dishwashers. A wetting agent helps prevent water spots on glasses and silverware.
- Clean the filter screen often. A clogged filter can reduce the efficiency of your dishwasher.

Dedication Service Saturday For Sylvester Tabernacle

The people of Sylvester are inviting interested persons to attend dedication service for a new tabernacle Saturday. This new structure sits on the site of the old one that blew away during a tornado in the early 1950's. It is on the hill just across from the old building that once housed the Josey and Scott General Mercantile.

Everyone who would like to participate in the noon luncheon is requested to bring a covered dish. No time has been set for people to arrive Saturday morning. The dedication service will follow the luncheon.

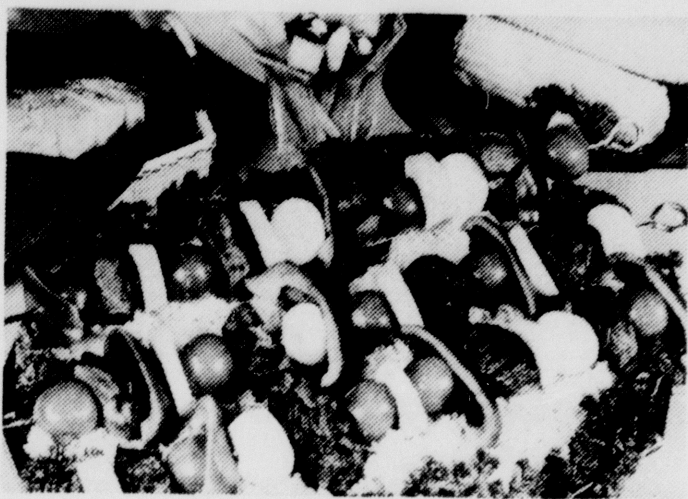

When plans began to take shape for the building of the tabernacle, officers were elected.

Mrs. Thurman Douglass is the chairman; Mrs. Fred Fountain, vice chairman; and Mrs. Raymond Kiser, secretary-treasurer. A general committee was chosen, consisting of Mrs. Charlie Meek, Mrs. Alfred Douglass, Mrs. Velma Reed, Thurman Douglass, Alfred Douglass and Charles H. Scott.

Thurman Douglass has been in complete charge of the planning, the securing of materials, and the construction. Many have donated help.

Donations of money have come in from many places, as word spread of the project. In the past each of Sylvester's three churches—the Baptist, the Methodist, and the Church of Christ—held their summer revivals in the open air tabernacle. Denominational barriers were forgotten, as everyone went to all three meetings. This is the way the sponsors want the tabernacle to be used.

Anyone wishing to donate to the tabernacle fund should send the money to the Sylvester Tabernacle Association, C-O Billie Kiser, Box 141, Sylvester, Texas 79560.

KEBABS AND PILAF—Marinated lamb chunks, skewered, broiled and served with rice pilaf add a touch of the East to traditional tables. Fresh, skewered vegetables provide eye appeal and balance to the meal. For additional recipes write Commissioner John C. White, Texas Department of Agriculture, P. O. Box 12847, Austin, Tex. 78711.

Another Fine Texas Recipe

LAMB KEBABS WITH PILAF

KEBABS: 1/2 cup tarragon vinegar, 1/2 cup dry white wine (optional), 2 Tbsp. salad oil, 1 clove garlic, minced, 2 Tbsp. mixed pickling spice, 1/4 tsp. crushed rosemary, 1 1/2 pounds boned lamb leg or shoulder cut in 1 1/2-inch pieces, 1 large green pepper cut in wedges, 2 medium tomatoes cut in wedges, 2 medium onions cut in wedges, 2 medium squash, sliced.

Combine vinegar, wine, oil, garlic, pickling spice and rosemary. Pour over lamb pieces and marinate several hours or overnight in refrigerator. Arrange lamb on skewers and place in broiler; brush with marinade. Broil 3-4 inches from source of heat 5-6 minutes per side. Thread the vegetables on additional skewers. Place under broiler and continue cooking around 5 minutes or until meat and vegetables are done. Brush frequently with marinade. Serve lamb and vegetables on rice pilaf. Yield: Four servings.

Rice Pilaf

Melt 1/4 cup butter in skillet over low heat. Add 1 cup raw rice and 2 Tbsp. minced onion. Cook, stirring frequently, until rice turns opaque. Add 2 cups chicken broth; cover and simmer 15-20 minutes or until all liquid is absorbed and rice is tender. For additional recipes write Commissioner John C. White, Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Tex. 78711.

ride on a film of oil that is only about two one-thousandths of an inch thick. Any given point on the fast-moving crankshaft passes any given point on its bearings up to 7,000 times a minute. It doesn't take a very big chunk of dirt to do serious damage to those vital, fast-moving parts.

Fortunately, oil chemists have developed detergent oils that serve as cleaning solutions for your engine, flushing away fine particles of dirt and trapping them in the oil filter where they will do no harm.

So for maximum engine life and for more efficient engine operation, change your filter when you change your oil. It's cheap engine insurance.
